Website disclaimer

The content of our website has been written with the greatest possible care. Nevertheless, we cannot guarantee the accuracy nor completeness of the information of each page on our website. The content is not legally binding and we do not accept any liability which might arise from the content.

Links to external sites and reference to our website

Some of our website pages contain external links. We are not responsible for the content of such other websites. Reference to our website (e.g. on other websites) is only permitted if our good name is preserved and/or we have been consulted in time to give our approval.

Copyright

The content of our website, i.e. its graphics and downloadable files, are copyrighted. Reproduction, photocopying, recording, multiplication in any form, distribution, commercially exploit of the content or otherwise is not allowed without our written permission, unless:

- you print or download material for your own personal and non-commercial use;
- you copy material and provide this to other third parties for their personal non-commercial use. In that case you are obliged to mention the source of the material.
